Virginia Wildlife Management's presence at the refinery began in the early 1980's. This Wildlife Management Company's services were retained in order to control large populations of burrowing animals in and around the refineries 700 plus acre tank farm and refinery operation.

Their team professionally removed many nuisance animals in the earthen berms in direct conflict with the refineries ability to control a spill. This is a very complex task, requiring their staff to coordinate with refinery personnel to work in and around day to day refinery operations.

For more than 14 years and until the refinery closed in 2011, Virginia Wildlife Management services were retained for all of our wildlife issues within the refinery. They always responded to our ever changing needs from professional bird control work to emergencies with mammals and impressed us with their knowledge and experience. Most important Virginia Wildlife Management did so through many years without one single reportable injury or accident.

I have known Mr. Goins for many years and have always been impressed with his knowledge and professional manner in which he conducts his business. I'm confident in saying if you need professional wildlife control Virginia Wildlife management should be your choice.
